Itinerary

Come see why magnificent Highway One through northern San Luis Obispo County is one of the premier places for coast bike trips. Located just south of the Big Sur coast, this stretch of California coast is every bit as beautiful as Big Sur, but lacks the major climbs and hairpin turns of the Big Sur coastal highway. Imagine yourself on your bike on an undulating road with waves crashing below the bluffs to your right while the picturesque coastal range rises on your left. It rarely gets better than this. On this trip, we shuttle up to Ragged Point and cycle south past a colony of decidedly odd looking elephant seals (a must see stop!), as well as the legendary Hearst Castle and San Simeon Cove. After a delicious gourmet picnic lunch at a seaside park, we ride our bikes through the delightful village of Cambria, home to numerous art galleries and shops. Leaving Cambria you have the option to cycle along idyllic Santa Rosa Creek Valley to Linn's Farmstand to finish the tour and/or continuing south before winding up in the classic beach town of Cayucos. What a perfect way to experience this spectacular stretch of coast!

Distance/Difficulty/Terrain: 29 miles with options to add 5-18 miles. Moderately Easy. Mostly level terrain with some climbs on the 29 mile option (Elevation gain/loss = +1357/-1389 feet). Longest option has a one mile climb.

Climate / Weather

The climate along the Cambria coastal area is temperate year round. High temperatures usually range from 50s to upper 70s, although daily highs are usually in the 60s and morning temperatures are usually cooler. In summer there is often fog along the coast and in winter we may encounter rain.
